

AMENDMENT NO. 8 TO ORDINANCE NO. 24-033

Amendment Name: Clarifications to History of Stillaguamish Tribe

Brief Description: This amendment would provide clarifications to descriptions of the historic activities of the Stillaguamish Tribe

Proposed By: Councilmember Megan Dunn

Affecting: Exhibit M, Narrative Text

Existing Ordinance Recitals, Findings, Sections, or Exhibits to Modify:

Exhibit M, on Page TC-7, the second paragraph in the introduction narrative on the Stillaguamish Tribe of Indians, modify by inserting underlined text and removing the text in strike-through as follows:

The Stillaguamish Tribe of Indians comprises descendants of the Stoluck-wa-mish River Tribe. In 1855, the indigenous population (~~(resided on)~~) occupied winter villages near the main branch of the Stillaguamish River, as well as the north and south forks, near present day Arlington and Stanwood, Washington. The name Stoluck-wa-mish or Stillaguamish has been used since 1850 to refer to the people who lived along the Stillaguamish River and camped along its tributaries and neighboring marine areas. The ancestors of the Stillaguamish were a party to the Treaty of Point Elliott of 1855, under the spelling Stoluck-wa-mish. However, no separate reservation was established for the Stoluck-wa-mish River Tribe. Some moved to the Tulalip Reservation, but the majority remained in the aboriginal area along the Stillaguamish River.
